

Tour of the Barry Museum

Please join your fellow ILR members for a guided tour at the Barry Museum of their special exhibit, Karen LaMonte: Theatre de la Mode. Karen LaMonte is an acclaimed American sculptor living and working in Prague. She creates astonishing works of glass, ceramic and metal sculptures that portray the human body through hollow clothing.

Suzanne Peterson, Community Outreach Coordinator/Artist Education, will be our docent for this amazing 1-hour tour. We will meet in the Museum lobby at 11:50 a.m.

DATE and TIME: Friday, November 19, 2021, 12:00 noon. If there is an overflow, an additional tour will be conducted. Reservation deadline: Thursday, November 11th.

LOCATION: Barry Art Museum at Old Dominion University
1075 W. 43rd Street (at intersection of Hampton Blvd. and W. 43rd Street)
Norfolk, VA 23529

PARKING: Parking is available in the Constant Center Garage, adjacent to the Museum on W. 43rd Street. Follow signs for Barry Art Museum Parking. Free Museum guest parking spaces are marked and available on the ground floor during Museum hours of operation. Be sure to park in designated spaces and during Museum hours.

COST: $5 (includes administrative fee and donation).

In addition to their special exhibits, the Barry Museum has a wonderful collection of paintings, glass art, and dolls. If you have time, these are not to be missed. For those wishing to make an afternoon that includes a meal, numerous restaurants are on Monarch Way (1 block away), Colley Avenue, and in Ghent.

If you have any questions on the day of the tour, feel free to call or text Carrie Knott (757) 636-7388.
